TypeFocus & Working on Purpose
8 Week COMBO Workshop

By HMH Consulting (Fawn Nielsen)

PROCESS

The 'Working On Purpose' and 'TypeFocus' workshops are a winning combination. Both have provided unprecedented success in helping clients discover their unique contribution to the world and how to attach to the industry that will help them achieve their ultimate career goal.

With new insights and career management tools individuals can confidently stay on track and continue an upward growth curve.

THE FACILITATOR

Fawn Nielsen is a Certified Career Development Practitioner in the province of British Columbia. She has utilized the work of Steve Miller and Dave Wood for several years. Fawn has seen firsthand how effective this combination is in providing clients with practical and achievable career goals.

WORKSHOP (25 hours)

8 Half Day workshops Tuesdays 9am – Noon (PST), plus one consultation.
Clients should plan for a minimum of 30 minutes of voluntary exploring homework daily.
Participants will be assisted to complete an in-depth report designed to get them on the path to their new career.

WHO ARE WORKSHOPS FOR?

Individuals wanting to find and/or change their current career will find support and tools to start the process.
HR and Career Development Professionals working within a corporation or institute seeking assistance with staff/clients in Career Planning.

WHAT TO EXPECT?

Clients will discover their own personality 'Type" including strengths and potential areas for growth.
The group experience allows each participant to explore 6 modules of career development.
This insightful, engaging and fun-filled approach to learning accommodates anyone who is looking for a career change; those beginning their careers and professionals who are seeking to change their careers.
The workshop incorporates recent advances in neuroscience to provide an experience that will benefit and energize anyone looking to optimize their career path.

Fawn combines 5 different sources of awareness and hands-on computer support to challenge participants to explore various learning styles.

This combination not only promises to help individuals find their best career, but it also provides strategies for success in the workplace; increased confidence and leadership skills, conflict resolution and career management tools to help clients stay on track and continue an upward growth curve.

Five Sources of Awareness

1. Assessments
   Allow clients to analyze themselves through a new lens. By clearly seeing personality, behavioural patterns, areas of rigidity and self concept the client can determine what area they wish to develop to drive their own success.
2. Movement/Metaphor/Non-Verbal Exercises
   Are designed to enhance insights through body and mind participation.
3. Group Feedback
   A structured and safe process for giving and receiving feedback from others. An effective method to uncover 'blind spots.'
4. Guided Imagery
   Allows individuals to exercise their right brain, often leading to interesting discoveries.
5. Lecturettes
   Short lectures explain concepts and appeal to the left-brainers!

This combination will provide clients an inner path of self-exploration before developing an outer trajectory of career development.

By the final day individuals are well prepared to complete an effective Strategic Career Plan that will launch them toward a passion-based career.
