Working on Purpose
5 Half Day
Workshop

By HMH Consulting (Fawn Nielsen)

PROCESS

The 'Working On Purpose' workshop is a condensed version of 'The Implicit Career Search Workshop' created by Steve Miller. This process has been studied numerous times and is proven to provide the audience with the tools and processes to develop and deliver their unique purpose-based career.

THE FACILITATOR

Fawn Nielsen is a Certified Career Development Practitioner in the province of British Columbia. She has utilized the work of Steve Miller for several years. Fawn is passionate to help individuals discover "THEIR" career; the one they are passionate to offer to the world. When we work with purpose it changes everything!

WORKSHOP (18 hours)

18 Hrs (5 Tuesdays, 9AM – 12PM, plus Group Presentation)
Clients should plan for a minimum of 60 minutes of voluntary exploring homework daily.
Participants will be assisted to complete an in-depth report designed to get them on the path to their new career. Participants are offered an opportunity to share their plan with the group.

WHO ARE WORKSHOPS FOR?

Individuals wanting to find and/or change their current career will find support and tools to start the process.

WHAT TO EXPECT?

The group experience allows each participant to explore 6 modules of career development.
This insightful, engaging and fun-filled approach to learning accommodates anyone who is looking for a career change; those beginning their careers and professionals who are seeking to change their careers. The workshop incorporates recent advances in neuroscience to provide an experience that will benefit and energize anyone looking to optimize their career path.

The facilitator brings years of experience working with all types of people from diverse backgrounds. Fawn uses various sources of awareness to accommodate different learning styles, and to challenge participants to explore different learning approaches to discover important lost and/or forgotten passions.
